

Coffinberry
School

Grade 3

November, 1975

A LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

As Third Graders, this is our first issue of The Coffinberry Friendly Herald. Each month, we will be giving you happenings from the different grades. We will have reports, riddles, short stories, word puzzles, poems, comics and maybe a few surprises. During your extra time, why not write some of these to put in our paper? We will be around to tell each class how you can contribute to our paper.

We hope that you enjoy reading our newspaper and will continue reading it each month to see "what's happening in our school".

Christine Sanaguatin

K is for Kindergarten

As part of the safety program, Mrs. Wright's class visited the Fire Department to learn the fire rules. The class is also studying safety rules. The children have learned to print their names already. They had a pumpkin drawing contest. One winner was for a scary face and one for a happy face.

Tom Pavlik

First Grade Fun

Have you seen the "Guess Who" chart in Mrs. Higginbotham's room? Well, if you haven't, I'll tell you about it. It's a big piece of green paper with a clue on it. At the end of the month, she will put a card with the answer on it and see who in the room knew it.

Have you heard about the Magic Words in Mrs. Higginbotham's room? She gives a person a word like "where". After they learn their word, if anybody in the room needs help with that word, they would go to the person who has it.

The First Graders have made stories and pictures of the school helpers. These were their first stories. Each person drew a school helper and a story to go with their picture.

Missy Bittel

The Busy Second Grade

The Second Grade has a new teacher, Miss Kattigan. They also have a "Whisper Club". That means that whoever talks out loud when they aren't asked to, is out of the club.

In Social Studies, they finished a map and are studying about apple country.

They are writing poem books in English. I'll bet they are good!

In science, they are writing a book and are learning how molecules move in the palm of their hand.

Silvio Doyle is teaching the second grade how to count in Spanish.

They also have hands to put around the room when they finish a book. That will help make them good readers!

Regina Zapanta

Third Grade

The Third Grade is studying alot of different things. Let's start with science. They are making planet booklets with pictures and information on the planets. They are making models of planets and to go along with Mars, they created their own Martians.

Let's go on to math. In math, they have something called the Coffinberry Speedway. They have "speed tests" with number facts and the two people who get their tests done fastest and all right, get their cars across the finish line first.

In Social Studies they are doing projects at home and bringing them in to share with the rest of the class.

Janine Penfield

The Fourth Grade

The Fourth Grade is learning about sounds. They have been doing experiments.

Some children in the fourth grade read poems and stories to the kindergarten. Some of them even help the kindergarten teacher.

They have interviewed people in the school and in the community. For Bicentennial, they received letters from students in Strasburg, Colorado. They have written back and are excited about hearing from them again.

Elaine Selos

Miss Henry's Fifth Grade

The Fifth Grade is writing magazines, too. Their magazines will have jokes, riddles, puzzles, articles, recipes and poetry. They are sharing books with others in the class by giving book reports.

Some members of the class have Safety Patrol posts. Some members are also running our school store. Others are playing string instruments.

Their teacher says "they are a very good class".

Albert Talan

Miss Annett's Fifth Grade

Guess what this grade is doing! They are making their own magazines. Some of them are called: "Hot Shot", "America", and "Coffinberry Bazaar". The magazines are going to be in the library when they are finished so be sure to go down to look at them.

In math, they are learning how to divide. They are also learning how to buy things and when they're finished, they will be the "smartest shoppers in the whole school".

Beth Hollander

A Week At Mohican

Some things that happened with Mrs. Berry's class were that some of them got poison ivy. They went on a picnic in the rain. Some of the children crawled through a hollow log. One boy, named Jay Whitaker, caught a garter snake and got a little bite.

They followed clues in a compass game and can you believe their teacher, Mrs. Berry, got lost "just for a short while".

Some children took a short walk to Pleasant Hill Dam on a very rocky trail called Johnny Applesseed. Some goats took some kids for a walk, too!

Deidre Huebner

Sixth Grade on the Move

The sixth grade of Mrs. Hefflefinger also went to Mohican Outdoor School. They studied ponds and explored the woods. They made grape jelly out of wild grapes. Some made candles and went rock hunting. They learned about weather. I sure wish I could have gone.

In Social Studies they have learned about explorers like Prince Henry and Christopher Columbus.

Linda Alschbach

Isn't it exciting to go to school at Coffinberry?

Now Are You At Riddles? (You'll have to look on another page to find the answers.)

1. When is a cook bad?
2. What does a lady pig eat on a hill?
3. What dog keeps the best time?
4. What is the best way to make a fire with two sticks?
5. Why did the little boy throw the clock out the window?

Mike Kodysz

Here's a special word puzzle for you. It's called, Junior Jumble. Here's how you do it. Unscramble each word. Print it in the spaces below the letters. Use the letters in the circles to get the clue word.

IKT
O

GANB
OO

REHB
O

KORF
O

Clue:

Wise to keep it on when one gets out
of the car.

THE OOOOOO

Jodi Sunkle

Answer:
Fenny

POETRY CORNER

(Can you guess what my poem is talking about?)

This Man Went Away

I met a man that was all mine.
He was round and thin and all a-shine.
He had no feet, but he came to me.
He had one eye, but he couldn't see.
He had no fingers, he had no thumb,
But still he gave me a stick of gum.

And then he was gone. He was mine no more,
And I went home alone from the store.

If you want to know who he is, ask Jenny:
She gave him to me.

Yes, A Brand New _____

(If you can't guess, look on another page!)

Mike Linnevers

From: I Met a Man by John Ciardi

We all wish you a very Happy Thanksgiving.
Miss Ryan and the Third Grade

5. Because he wanted to see time fly.

4. Make sure one of them is a match

3. A watch dog

2. To make a hog of himself

1. When he beats an egg

Answers to riddles:

